Eat Drink Design is an exclusive pop-up expo restaurant, an innovative platform for the creative industries. As a satellite of international cultural events, we create a temporary restaurant, furnish it with the work of designers and artists, curate an exhibition and invent a project between the creative industries and other economical sectors. Different each time.

Eat Drink Design is a concept of designers Annemoon Geurts, Koen Rijnbeek and cook Edwin Severijn. Due to our personal passion and social involvement we want to contribute to the broadening of the creative culture. By presenting the creative industries, initiating impulses, offering an exceptional experience and valuable stories we want to inspire and stimulate, let people enjoy.

Eat Drink Design 2012 pops up in former military police barracks and a large industrial storehouse. An independent foundation wants to restore this historical heritage with a view to a permanent version of Eat Drink Design plus; an international platform for the creative industries. A place where culture, wining and dining, sleeping, working and relaxing are combined into a memorable experience at the highest possible level. For inspiration, unexpected meetings, stimulating conversation and activities that boost business.
